The goal is to help faculty and staff gain information and develop strategies in order to be fully engaged and do their best in work and life.

To that end, the FEAP WorkLife services provide a diverse menu of resources, programs and services that offer assistance in managing the daily challenges of integrating work, family, and personal life.

Navigating Work & Life

Taking care of oneself is the first step toward healthy, productive living. It can be challenging to balance all the areas of life such as career, home life, relationships, children, community and volunteer commitments, money, and our physical and emotional health. When stressed and overwhelmed, even daily tasks can seem difficult and our body and mind start to suffer. Let us help.

Our services include:
- Individual consultation
- Information sharing
- Referral to appropriate community resources
- Departmental and small group presentations on work/life topics

Coaching

Executive Coaching for administrators, managers and faculty who want to further develop their leadership skills. Partner with an executive coach during or after a leadership course in order to enhance integration of new leadership skills.

Professional Coaching for motivated individuals who want to:
- Clarify and achieve desired results in their personal and/or professional life
- Increase productivity
- Create greater balance in their life
- Improve communication
- Make a positive change to enhance their life
- Educational Seminars to improve workgroup effectiveness, such as Meyers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) Training and Effective Communication

Lawyer Referral Service

FEAP WorkLife partners with Legal Access to provide referrals on a variety of legal issues to local attorneys. Upon referral, the employee has a free initial consultation and reduced fees for certain services provided after the initial consultation. You must be referred through either the Faculty and Employee Assistance Program or WorkLife Services in order to access this valuable resource.
