

Weekly Wisdom

Grow the Green for You and Your Team

"I don't know you from a loaf of bread."

Who's on Your Team?

Staff shortages and frequent turnover often result in new team faces. Not knowing their skills, strengths, and weaknesses can affect patient care and team cohesion.

Make a point of introducing yourself to new team members. Ask them to share their patient care experience. "What do you love most about your work? How can I help you?"

Invite new team members to share a little bit about themselves - where they've lived, what their non-work-related interests are.

"Have you met -----?" Introduce new members to the team.

Post photos & bios of all team members on bulletin boards.

Bonus: Making personal connections helps your well-being, too!